Eco-Bistro and Wine Friendly Restaurant

- eco pref. (ē'kō) mostly relating to ecological terms. Our business puts the earth first from the food and drink we strive to serve (sustainable, organic, local, and biodynamic) to the take-away containers we use of 100% compostable, to the recycling programs, e-newsletters, local music, zebra striped engineered hardwood dance floor, and dining spaces re-designed with renewable, recycled, and environmentally friendly materials. Al fresco dining and a bike rack are among our eco-friendly amenities.

- bistro n., pl. -tros (bs' trō) A small cafe, tavern, or nightclub. A small, informal restaurant serving wine.

- Sustainable wine (S) a process that can be maintained at a certain level indefinitely. The term, in its environmental usage, refers to the potential longevity of vital human ecological also used in agriculture, such as Virginia Wines. (V)

- Organic wine (O) is wine that has been produced from organically grown grapes, but no legal international definition exists

- Biodynamic wine (BD) are made using the principles of biodynamic agriculture, speaks of wine made from biodynamic grapes becoming known as BD wines. The practice of biodynamics in viticulture (grape growing) has become popular in recent years, especially in Europe, particularly in France, but also in the "New World" (i.e. California, Washington and Oregon; Australia, Chile, South Africa, Canada; and, back in Europe, also in Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Germany). Biodynamic grape-growing stems from the ideas and suggestions of Rudolf Steiner (1861–1925), who gave his now famous "Agriculture Course" in 1924, predating most of the organic movement. The principles and practices of biodynamics are based on his spiritual/practical philosophy, called anthroposophy, which includes understanding the ecological, the energetic, and the spiritual in nature.
